

DOVE BRADSHAW

HEADS

1988

Sandra Gering Gallery
New York

We are very proud to exhibit Dove Bradshaw's Heads for the inaugural exhibition of the Sandra Gering Gallery. The exhibition consists of a dozen large portraits. They are based on a group of children's drawings that the artist solicited from her elementary school asking the children to make portraits of their families. Oil, oil stick, liquin were applied with a spatula. Bradshaw thoroughly examines each selected drawing by making a series of paintings based on it. She passes it through a screen of filters by altering the color scheme, paint application, scale and framing.